

NOT REAL

An AI Visual Studio

The brand identity of an artist working in the post-photographic age.

Not real. Still better.

We make images that never existed —
for brands that need to exist now.

No studio rentals. No model agencies. No three-week shoot schedules. A new visual language built for the speed of commerce and the standards of art.

Who, what, and for whom.

STUDIO

NOT REAL — an independent AI visual studio.

DISCIPLINE

AI Visual Artist. Photography, video and advertising, generated.

AUDIENCE

E-commerce and service brands ready to move beyond the production economy.

PROMISE

Editorial-grade visuals. Without the editorial-grade timeline.

FOUNDER

Inga — photographer turned AI visual director.

How we speak.

Bold in idea, quiet in delivery. We state. We don't sell.

01

SHORT SENTENCES. PUNCH.

No descriptive throat-clearing. "Better visuals. No shoot." outperforms "We craft beautiful images that elevate your brand presence."

02

NUMBERS OVER PROMISES

Replace adjectives with facts. Not "stunning campaigns" — "47 ad variants in 3 days."

03

OWN THE AI

Never hide that the work is AI-generated. Transparency is the unique selling point. The name itself states it.

04

PROVOKE. NEVER DIMINISH.

Push the conversation forward. Never undermine traditional photographers — the founder is one. Authority comes from craft, not from comparison.

05

HUMAN OVER CORPORATE

No "synergize," no "leverage," no "solutions." Write as a sharp friend, not a SaaS deck. "We make. You sell."

Three voices, one studio.

Each tagline is a different door into the same room.

Not real.
Sells real.

PRIMARY — COMMERCIAL USE

Crafted, not captured.

SECONDARY — EDITORIAL & PREMIUM

The end of expensive shoots.

TERTIARY — DIRECT RESPONSE

The wordmark.

Instrument Serif Regular. Letter-spacing 0.28em. Set quietly. Read loudly.

Cellar & Silk.

A palette of vintage Bordeaux, espresso brown and bone cream. The materials of a wine cellar and a silk shirt.

The 60-30-10 rule.

Quiet luxury demands restraint. Saturate one color and you lose the entire system.

DISTRIBUTION ACROSS COMPOSITIONS

Bone Cream — backgrounds, white space

Espresso — body type, structure

Bordeaux — single accent moments

Mushroom + Cognac
— dividers

ALWAYS

- Bone Cream as 60%+ of every composition
- Espresso instead of pure black for warmth
- Bordeaux as a single accent — one word, one line, one stamp
- Mushroom for hairline dividers and metadata

NEVER

- Bordeaux + Cognac touching without a neutral buffer
- Pure white (#FFFFFF) on Bone Cream — looks dirty
- All five palette colors in one composition
- Bordeaux as a full background on social — too loud

Two voices. One system.

Not real.

abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz · 0123456789

High-contrast editorial serif with a sculpted, hand-drawn character. Italic carries the weight of an artist's signature — used for accents, never for body.

BODY — INTER

GOOGLE FONTS · FREE

Aa Bb Cc 123

abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz · 0123456789

A neutral, high-legibility sans-serif. Variable weight from 300 to 600. Built for screens and small print. Stays out of the way so the serif can speak.

The system.

Eight levels. No exceptions. Hierarchy is what separates a studio from a folder of nice fonts.

Loud Quiet Luxury.

*Five rules that govern every composition. Not guidelines.
Rules.*

i 95% QUIET • 5% LOUD

Every layout is mostly silence — generous Bone Cream space, restrained type, slow rhythm. One bold typographic moment. One Bordeaux accent. Then nothing more.

ii ASYMMETRY OVER CENTER

Centered layouts read as default. Off-center compositions read as intentional. Anchor headlines to the left. Let space carry the right.

iii TYPE IS THE HERO

No icons. No gradients. No decorative flourishes. The Instrument Serif italic is the brand's only ornament. Use it sparingly, place it precisely.

iv PRINT FIRST, SCREEN SECOND

Every composition should look at home on a printed page — even if it lives only on Instagram. The discipline of print prevents digital noise.

v THE WATERMARK IS THE BRAND

Every client visual carries a small NR monogram in Bone Cream at 30% opacity. Bottom right. The mark travels with the work into the world.

In the wild.

The system applied. Three formats. One language.
